Ayana Fort Kochi, Kochi

Ayana Fort Kochi, by Ayana Hospitality, a JV between the ICS Group (India) and Mantis Group (South Africa), has a plethora of activities to offer to its guests. One can rise early to salute the sun at the rooftop yoga class or just sleep in and enjoy hot tea in bed. One can venture out to explore the vibrant spice markets of Fort Kochi or rejuvenate with an in-room massage. Take a dip in the rooftop pool or keep fit at the gymnasium, browse through the curated collection at the in-house curio shop or spend evenings savouring the sunset and the scrumptious kebabs at the Mediterranean terrace cafe. This converted hotel has the distinction of having been the court house during the Portuguese occupation and is said to be almost 200 years old. The main hotel reception is astounded by the high wooden sloping roof and all 16 rooms feature authentic Indian Athangudi tile floors, combined with art deco interiors, successfully blending history with modern luxurious comfort.
